

Avishek Malla is Mechanical Engineering graduate with Masters in Renewable energy from Murdoch University, Australia. He has 6 years professional experience at national and international level in the renewable energy sector - solar PV and low temperature solar thermal applications. Since 2012, he is has been a part of the SUPSI grid tied piloting project with successfully leading the installation team and monitoring of the system. Currently, he is working as program officer at Alternative Energy Promotion Centre, which is the apex government institution promoting renewable energy in Nepal.